4. It requires heavy investment for installation of tracks and maintenance that increases its fare on the users.
5. If railways are not fully utilized and if wagons and coaches are to half empty to its capacity, a heavy financial burden will be cast on the railway.

14.03 Recent Trends in Transportation

a) Metro Rail

Metro Rail is a Mass Rapid Transport System (MRTS). It is a convenient, fast, efficient, reliable, comfortable mode of urban transport. Rapid transit also known as heavy rail, metro, subway, tube or underground is a type of high capacity public transport generally found in urban areas.

b) Monorail

A monorail is like a train, but instead of having two sets of wheels that balances on a railway track, the monorail is balanced on top of one rail. Monorails are often used to transport people around large cities. Some monorails utilize magnets to hover on their rails, reducing friction between the train and the rail. The first monorail was invented in the 19th century.

c) Bullet train

High-speed rail is a type of rail transport that operates significantly faster than traditional rail traffic, using an integrated system of specialized rolling stock and dedicated tracks. The first such system began operations in Japan in 1964 and was widely known as the bullet train. High-speed trains normally operate on standard gauge tracks of continuously welded rail.

d) Pipeline Transport

It is the mode of transportation of goods or materials through pipe. Liquids and gases are transported in pipelines. Pipeline exist for the transport of crude and refined petroleum, fuels such as Oil, Natural gas and Bio-fuel etc., and other fluids including sewage, slurry and water. It requires heavy investment to install.

e) Conveyor Transport

It is the broad category of transport mode that includes modes developed from the idea of a conveyor belt. Examples include Conveyor belt, two or more Pulleys with a continuous loop of material that rotates about them, Escalator, Elevator which is used carrying people among floors of building, etc...
