India embarks on the path to Globalisation

International business has entered into a new era of reforms. India too did not remain cut-off from these developments. India was under severe debt trap and was facing crippling balance of payments crisis. In 1991, it approached the International Monetary Fund (IMF) for raising funds to tide over its balance of payment deficit. IMF agreed to lend money to India subjects to the conditions that India would undergo structural changes to be able to ensure repayment of borrowed fund. India had no alternative but to agree to the proposal. It was the conditions imposed by IMF which more or less force India to liberalise its economic policies. Since then a fairly large amount of liberalization at the economic front has taken place. Though the process of reforms has somewhat slowed down. India is very much on the path to globalization and integrating with world economy. While, on the one hand, many multinational corporations (MNCs) have ventured into Indian market for selling their goods and services, many Indian companies too have stepped out the country to market their goods and services to consumers in foreign countries is all business transactions-private and governmental- that involve two or more countries. Private companies undertake such transactions for profits, governments may or may not do the same in their transactions.
