training, recruitment, selection etc., is sure to be profitable. The organisation must provide for an environment where the employees are to free to report about the matters of unethical behaviour.

4. Involving Employees at All Levels

It is the employees at different levels who implement ethics policies to make ethical business a reality. Therefore, their involvement in ethics programmes becomes a must. For example small group of employees can be formed to discuss the important ethics policies of firms and examine attitudes of employees towards these policies.

5. Measuring Results

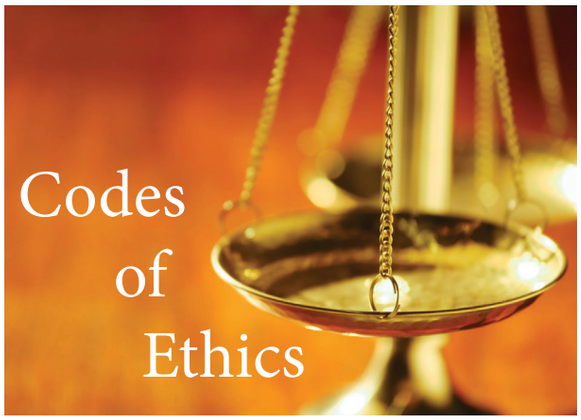

The organisations from time to time keep a check on ethical practise followed. Although it is difficult to accurately measure the end results of ethics programmes, the firms can certainly audit to monitor compliance with ethical standards. The top management team and other employees should then discuss the results for further course of action.

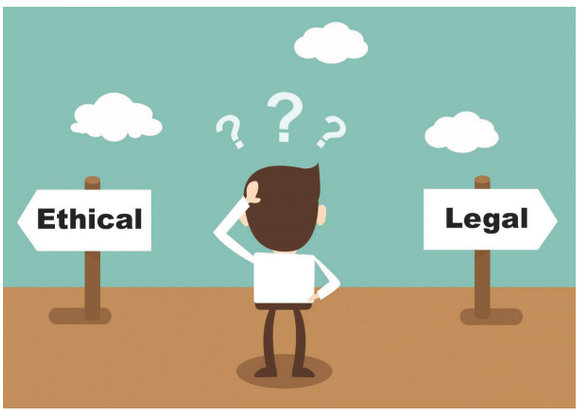

18.03 Code of Business Ethics

Code of ethics documents the generally accepted principles of ethical conduct. They are statements of values and principles which define the purpose of an organisation. It gives a clear picture of the standards that employees should follow .It guides them in decision making.

The code of business ethics can include the following:

1. To offer goods at fair prices.
2. To supply quality goods and not to deal in spurious and sub standard products.
