by temples, the most important being the vindhyavasini Temple. It extends between the N.R. main line and the Ganga. North of the Gnaga lay the market towns of Kachhwa, Chilh and Khamaria where bi-Weekly markets are held

Transport and cmmunication

It is served by two railways, viz. (1) N.R. Main line (broad gauge electrified) running from Mughalsarai and passing through the main stations of Pahara, Jhingura, Mirzapur and Vindhyachal and (2) N.E. Line (broad gauge) from Mirzapur Ghat (R.S) to Madhosingh (Varanasi – Allahabad). A loop-line also exists from Pahara to a quary about 2kms away.

The area is well connected by roads. The Allahabad-Mughal sarai metalled road runs across the region south of the N.R. Main line and passes through Mirzapur. The National Highway No. 7 (Great Deccan Road) runs from Mirzapur to Lohaghat (16km.) on its onward journey to Kanyakumari (2300 k.m) Another metalled road joins Mirzapur and southern parts of the district via Churk, Robertsganj and Pipri.Besides there are other roads like Jaunpur-Mirzapur Road, Chilh (Mirzapurghat)-Gopiganj Road and Mirzapur-Bhatauli Road. There are some unmetalled roads linking Mirzapur – Chunar and Mirzapur-Mharajganj. The Ganga Plain is, on the whole better served by roads as compared to its upland counterpart.
